★
Wow!

My name is Mark Sellers. I'm twenty-two years old, and I work in security in Mason's store. You can get everything here – books, TVs, hats, flowers, sandwiches, beds, bicycles . . . It's interesting work, and I like it. Sometimes I walk around in the store, and sometimes I work in the office.

Leon and Shami work in security too. I like working with them.

‘Look at this woman,’ Leon says. ‘Which hat is best for her – blue or black?’

I look at the woman on the screen.

‘Oh – the black hat,’ I say.

‘No!’ says Shami. ‘The blue hat is nicer.’

We watch and wait. In the end the woman takes the blue hat.

‘Hurray!’ says Shami. ‘You two know nothing about hats.’

Yes, it’s interesting work.

The Girl with Red Hair

Today I'm watching the screens. I'm looking at a man with a big bag. He's got a clock in his hand. He looks around slowly. Now he's got a clock in his bag. The man walks to the door. I talk on my radio. Shami walks quietly behind the man. When he gets to the door, she puts her hand on his arm.

'Please come with me,' she says.
Good. I go back to the screens.

And then I see her.

‘Wow! Who’s that girl?’

‘What girl? I can see lots of girls,’ Leon says.

Now the picture on the screen is bigger.

‘That girl there – with red hair.’

Leon looks at the screen.

‘Hmm – yes, she’s OK. But who is she? I don’t know.

Why don’t you go and ask her, Mark?’

The Girl with Red Hair

He laughs and walks away, but I can't stop looking at the screen. Who is that beautiful girl? What is her name? I want to meet her.

Every day I look for the girl with red hair, but I do not see her.

‘Where is she?’ Leon says every day. ‘Where’s the girl with red hair, Mark? What’s her name?’

‘Oh stop it, Leon,’ says Shami. ‘Mark can dream, can’t he?’

I laugh at first, but after three days, I want to hit Leon. Then, suddenly, I see her again.

I am watching a woman with a big bag. And then, there she is – the girl with red hair. She’s got green eyes too. But there is a baby with her, a little boy. They are looking at a book about trains.

‘Look, Greg,’ she says. ‘Look at the big train.’

The little boy smiles. He’s got red hair and green eyes too. Her baby. So – has she got a husband? A boyfriend? I look at her beautiful green eyes again, and then I go back to work. But there are lots of questions in my head.

The Girl with Red Hair

She comes to the store on Wednesday mornings. She usually arrives at about eleven o'clock.

'How's your girl?' asks Leon.

'She's not my girl,' I say. 'I don't know her name. Her little boy's name is Greg, but she's – the girl with red hair.'

'Well, let's give her a name,' says Leon. 'What do you think, Shami?'

'Hmm – Scarlet! Her name is Scarlet,' says Shami.

'Apples are red,' says Leon. 'Apple is a nice name—'

Then he looks at my face, and runs out the door.

Boohoo

Next Wednesday I am in the store when the girl with red hair comes in with Greg. She stops and looks at a picture. Greg takes his hat off and drops it. I pick up the hat and go over to her.

‘Excuse me,’ I say. ‘Is this your little boy’s hat?’

She smiles at me.

‘Oh, thank you,’ she says. ‘Greg, look, it’s your hat.’

Greg laughs. She puts out her hand and takes the hat from me. Is she wearing a ring? No, there is no ring on her hand.

Wednesday is the best day of the week, I think.

The Girl with Red Hair

Ten minutes later, I am near the flowers when Leon speaks to me on my radio.

‘Mark, go to the door!’ he says. ‘You must stop her – the girl with red hair.’

‘What? What’s happening?’ I say.

‘Go quickly – now. It’s the little boy – he’s got one of the red planes.’

Those red planes! Children take them all the time, because they like the colour. Then they get to the door and the alarm rings. Children cry, and their mothers get angry. I hate those planes!

When I get to the door, the alarm is ringing. The girl with red hair is standing there, and her face is red.

‘What’s happening?’ she says.

‘Please come back into the store for a minute,’ I say.

We go back into the store, and the alarm stops.

‘This young man has got the answer, I think. Where’s the plane?’ I say to Greg.

‘Plane,’ says Greg, and he waves a little red plane at us.

‘Oh, I am sorry!’ she says.

‘It’s all right,’ I say. ‘It happens all the time. Can I have the plane? Good boy!’

‘Thank you very much,’ says the girl with red hair. But the alarm is ringing again. I must go.

The Girl with Red Hair

I walk into the office upstairs. Shami is watching the screens. She stops and looks at my face.

She says nothing, but she smiles. Then she goes back to work.

I look at the screens too – but I am dreaming.

The Girl with Red Hair

I'm happy. I'm really happy. But how can I meet her again? I think about this for the next six days, but I can't find any answers. Then it's Wednesday again.

I'm sitting in the office watching the screens. Ten o'clock comes and goes, then eleven o'clock. I can't see her.

The Girl with Red Hair

I look on every screen in the store. In the end I see her near the door. She's looking at her watch, and talking to Greg. Is she waiting for somebody?

Perhaps she's meeting somebody. Perhaps she's late. Perhaps her mother is coming. Perhaps—

But now she's waving at somebody.

A good-looking man in a black jacket walks up to the girl with red hair and kisses her. Greg laughs, and the man picks him up and kisses him too. Is he the baby's father? Of course he is. Anybody can see that.

I don't want to look, but I can't take my eyes away from the screen. Then they all go down the road, away from the store.

I look around the room. Leon and Shami are in the store, and the room is very quiet. It feels cold.

Then Leon and Shami come in. 'Now that's not a happy face,' Shami says. 'What's the matter?'

I tell them. I tell them about the girl with red hair, and Greg, and the good-looking man – and the kiss.

Leon looks at my face and thinks for a minute.

'Look, Mark,' he says. 'It's a dream, that's all. You see a nice girl, you think about her, you talk to her – and one day her boyfriend arrives. Boohoo. You stop dreaming. But there are always more girls.'

‘Yes, but—’ I say, and then I stop.

‘But they’re not the girl with red hair, right?’ says Leon. ‘But she’s got a boyfriend. You need a different girl, Mark – a girl without a boyfriend. Why don’t you come out with us tonight? We’re going to Ocean Blue. It’s a wonderful club, and there are lots of nice girls there.’

I don’t really want to go, but I don’t want to stay at home and do nothing.

‘OK, then,’ I say.

‘Good man,’ says Leon. ‘See you there at nine.’

3
Yay!!

The club is dark. There's a lot of noise, and a lot of people, but the music is good.

Leon is there with his girlfriend Ellie. I talk to them and their friends. I'm feeling good. Perhaps tonight I can forget about everything. Leon and Ellie are dancing, so I go to get a drink.

The Girl with Red Hair

Leon is right about one thing – there are a lot of nice girls at Ocean Blue. Tall girls, interesting girls, girls with black hair, blue hair – and red hair.

Red hair? I'm waiting for my drink, and I'm standing next to the girl with red hair. No, two girls with red hair. Is this really happening?

The girl with red hair looks at me and smiles. ‘Just a minute,’ she says. ‘Don’t I know you?’

She’s talking to me! Why can’t I say anything?

‘In the store,’ I say at last. ‘In Mason’s store. With your little boy. And the red plane.’

The girl with red hair laughs.

‘Oh, with Greg!’ she says. ‘I remember. But he isn’t my baby – he’s Claire’s. This is my sister Claire – she’s his mother.’ The second girl with red hair waves at me.

‘But I always see you with him,’ I say.

‘I look after Greg on Wednesday mornings, and we always go to Mason’s,’ she says. ‘Then I meet Claire. Well, usually, that is. But not this week.’

Just then a good-looking man in a black jacket arrives. ‘Sorry I’m late,’ he says, and kisses Claire. ‘Hi, Kate.’

Claire smiles at him, and the girl with red hair says hello. I’m starting to understand. This is Claire’s husband, and Greg’s father. And the girl with red hair is called Kate.

My face is red.

‘Hey, I’m sorry,’ I say to Kate. ‘It’s – well, Greg’s got your hair and your eyes. But I can see now. He’s got Claire’s hair and eyes. Of course.’

‘It’s OK,’ Kate says. ‘It happens all the time. People say, “Isn’t your little boy happy!” And sometimes I just say, “Yes, he is.” ’

The Girl with Red Hair

Claire and her husband go off to dance, and I get Kate a drink.

‘Here you are, Kate. My name’s Mark.’

‘Thanks, Mark,’ she says. ‘So you work in Mason’s.’

‘Yes,’ I say. ‘I work in security. I look for little boys with red planes, and girls with red hair.’

‘And do you find them?’

‘I find lots of little boys with red planes.’

The Girl with Red Hair

‘And the girls?’

‘Just one.’

Now I have the answers to my questions. The girl with red hair is Kate. She hasn’t got a husband, and she hasn’t got a baby. And those green eyes are smiling at me. Yes, Wednesday really is the best day of the week.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Christine Lindop was born in New Zealand and taught English in France and Spain before settling in Great Britain. She has written more than twenty books, including several Bookworms: Red Roses, Sally's Phone (Starter), Ned Kelly: A True Story (Stage 1), and Australia and New Zealand (Stage 3). She has also adapted Goldfish (Stage 3) and edited A Tangled Web for the Oxford Bookworms Collection. She has worked on many other Oxford readers series as both an editor and a writer. In her free time she likes reading, watching films, gardening, and cooking.

OXFORD BOOKWORMS LIBRARY

*Classics • Crime & Mystery • Factfiles • Fantasy & Horror
Human Interest • Playscripts • Thriller & Adventure
True Stories • World Stories*

The OXFORD BOOKWORMS LIBRARY provides enjoyable reading in English, with a wide range of classic and modern fiction, non-fiction, and plays. It includes original and adapted texts in seven carefully graded language stages, which take learners from beginner to advanced level. An overview is given on the next pages.

All Stage 1 titles are available as audio recordings, as well as over eighty other titles from Starter to Stage 6. All Starters and many titles at Stages 1 to 4 are specially recommended for younger learners. Every Bookworm is illustrated, and Starters and Factfiles have full-colour illustrations.

The OXFORD BOOKWORMS LIBRARY also offers extensive support. Each book contains an introduction to the story, notes about the author, a glossary, and activities. Additional resources include tests and worksheets, and answers for these and for the activities in the books. There is advice on running a class library, using audio recordings, and the many ways of using Oxford Bookworms in reading programmes. Resource materials are available on the website <www.oup.com/bookworms>.

The Oxford Bookworms Collection is a series for advanced learners. It consists of volumes of short stories by well-known authors, both classic and modern. Texts are not abridged or adapted in any way, but carefully selected to be accessible to the advanced student.

You can find details and a full list of titles in the Oxford Bookworms Library Catalogue and Oxford English Language Teaching Catalogues, and on the website <www.oup.com/bookworms>.

Ned Kelly: A True Story

CHRISTINE LINDOP

When he was a boy, he was poor and hungry. When he was a young man, he was still poor and still hungry. He learnt how to steal horses, he learnt how to fight, he learnt how to live – outside the law. Australia in the 1870s was a hard, wild place. Rich people had land, poor people didn't. So the rich got richer, and the poor stayed poor.

Some say Ned Kelly was a bad man. Some say he was a good man but the law was bad. This is the true story of Australia's most famous outlaw.

Pocahontas

Retold by Tim Vicary

A beautiful young Indian girl, and a brave Englishman. Black eyes, and blue eyes. A friendly smile, a laugh, a look of love . . . But this is North America in 1607, and love is not easy. The girl is the daughter of King Powhatan, and the Englishman is a white man. And the Indians of Virginia do not want the white men in their beautiful country.

This is the famous story of Pocahontas, and her love for the Englishman John Smith.
